

August 22, 2014

Excited to work where you're applying? Show it

On the Job

By Nancy Mackevich Glazer

Nancy Mackevich Glazer is the manager of Legal Launch LLC, a company whose goal is to connect lawyers and legal employers.

So you're past the resume checkpoint. Today, that's no small task. Next, employers are typically looking for four key qualities.

They want to know about your past successes as they relate to their job description. Are you qualified bullet-by-bullet?

They want to assess if you are a good cultural fit for their office. Would they want you in the office next to theirs? This may be their most important concern.

They want you to be happy with their salary terms and benefits. An employer takes comfort knowing that the salary terms are a step up for you; they don't want you to leave them.

Don't gloss over this: Remember to show your excitement for the position. Be prepared to tell them the reasons you're thrilled to be considered.

Legal Launch LLC Connecting lawyers and legal employers