

Professor's work a job-seeker's gold mine

On the Job

By Nancy Mackevich Glazer

Nancy Mackevich Glazer is the manager of Legal Launch LLC, a company whose goal is to connect lawyers and legal employers. You can reach her at Nancy@LegalLaunch.net or at (847) 650-1535.

Undergrads often enroll in law school because it sounds good and feels like the right place for them. Law students and even attorneys don't always understand, however, what different practices actually entail.

1. If prospective and practicing attorneys really want to explore, they are fortunate to have the timely research and analysis of legal market expert: professor Richard Hermann.
2. Hermann's works are a job-seeker's gold mine of practical information. Author of nine books about legal careers and founder of the largest legal outplacement firm in the country, Hermann writes career blogs that dissect attorneys' work and reveal nuanced challenges in every practice area.
3. Hermann interviews hundreds of practitioners in hundreds of trenches. Refining your career is now simple. Hermann has exhaustively done your homework.